And Dozens of Families Rendered Homeles by Their Houses Being Demolished-It Sweeps the East and West.

The march of the storm, as it moves southward from its icy retreat, is marked by devastation and death.

The full details are difficult to get, as the wires in the storm-swept region are down, and only fragmentary news could be obtained. Enough has come, however, to indicate that the storm is severe; that its cyclonic features have left disaster behind; and that suffering and death will result from the sudden transi tion from spring to all the rigors of a northern

The Local Effect.

The howling winds of winter are with us, and the spring-like weather of the past few weeks is gone to return no more—at least for

During the past twenty-four hours the thermometer has fallen over thirty degrees, and the weather man on top of the Traders' bank building proclaims the fact that it is likely to go

While the sun was still shining bright and warm yesterday, the gentleman who has charge of the weather looked down with a pitying smile at the crowds hurrying round without overcoats. Then he got out his fur gloves and his big ulster, and ran up the white flag with a black center, which, to the ini-tiated, intimates that a cold wave may be ex-

It is not safe to prophecy as to how long the cold wave will stay; but it will remain sufficiently long to kill out the germs of the "grip" and to make the young men who have pawned their overcoats turn blue with the cold and long for a return of the summer weather that they have been growling about.

the Blow. Washington, January 13.—The storm which was central in the southwest yesterday, moved northeastward rapidly with great energy, passing over the central valleys and lake regions, attended by severe gales and destructive storms. Unusually warm southern winds prevailed to the eastward of the storm center, while the cold wave extended south-ward over the Mississippi valley to the gulf coast, the change of temperature in twelve hours ranging from forty to fifty degrees from Missouri and Illinois southward to the west

A COLD WAVE TODAY. The cold wave which extends over the central valleys, as far south as the gulf coast, will be felt on the Atlantic coast tonight and on Tuesday the temperature will probably fall as low as freezing. Tuesday night from Nev York southward to northern Georgia. The temperature will fall thirty degrees in the middle atlantic states by Tuesday night. The fall of temperature when it comes will be unusually rapid and cold weather will continu

THE TORNADO IN CHICAGO. The rain storm yesterday afternoon, at Chicago, gave place to a gale, which raged with great force and velocity all last night, and which has only diminished with the advent of colder weather. The rain and windstorm reached its height in Chicago at 6 o'clock last evening. Occasionally the tempest approached the fury of a tornado. Nearly an inch of rain fell during the hours from 4:30 to 7:30 p. m. Reports from Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas indicate about the same weather in those states.

WIND STORM AT PITTSBURG. A terriffic wind storm passed over Pittsburg, Pa., at about 6 o'clock this morning, doing ra, at about 6 octock this morning, doing considerable damage and prostrating wires in every direction. Communication east and west, for a time, was entirely cut off, but it has again been established, although the telegraphic service is still badly crippled.

SUFFERING IN KANSAS. Dispatches from different portions of Kansa report a blizzard in that state. At Wichita. ten inches of snow fell, and for hundreds of miles west the storm raged with fury, and the whole country is covered with snow to the depth of a foot or more. Railroad trains are stuck at several places and traffic is practically suspended. Intense suffering is reported in destitute districts in several of the western counties. There are forty or more cars of provisions at the town of Liberal, en route to the sufferers, but that is fifty to seventy miles away from the starving people, and nobody is willing to take the chances of freezing by hauling the freight in wagons. The temper-ature is not very low yet, but the mercury is falling and severe cold is apprehended.

A FREIGHT HOUSE WRECKED. A severe wind storm raged in Syracuse, N Y., this afternoon, many buildings being un-roofed. The new freight house of the Rome Watertown and Ogdensburg railroad, now in course of erection on Fulton street, was blown down. Sixty-five men were at work on the building, and William Willis, a carpenter, was killed a hourt of the carpenter of the course of the carpenter of t building, and William Willis, a carpenter, was killed. About a dozen carpenters were se-riously injured. The building was 300 feet by 50, one story and a half high, and was built of brick and stone. Only a small portion of the roof of the south end is left standing.

HEAVY FOG IN BOSTON. A phenomenal fog shut down on Boston for several hours this morning. Nothing like it had been seen before it in that city. It was mad been seen before it in that city. It was impossible to disern objects from across the street, vehicles crawled slowly to avoid collisions, and blockades in the business streets were frequent. In the harbor crafts of all kinds reduced their speed one-half, and steam vessels kept up a concert of whistles. The fog extended for many miles along the coast. Trains on the several railroads entering Boston were delayed. ton were delayed.

A CHURCH SPIRE BLOWN DOWN. The wind is blowing at Oswego, N. Y., at the rate of fifty-five or sixty miles an hour, and is creating havoc with telegraph wires. About 1:20 this afternoon the tall spire of the church 1:20 this afternoon the tall spire of the chur

OVER NEW YORK STATE. A heavy wind storm passed over Utica, N. Y., at noon today. In the village of South Trenton a Baptist church was unroofed, and the steeple of Union church blown down. A number of houses and barns were unroofed number of houses and barns were unroofed, and trees were lifted in the air and thrown on the pop of buildings. Fences and small buildings were blown down, and many orchards nearly ruined. The path of the storm was about half a mile wide and several miles long. So far as heard from no one was injured.

The wind at Rochester, N. Y., today is said to have reched the several miles long.

to have reached the velocity of seventy-five miles an hour. Many buildings have been partially demolished and several persons killed by the falling debris. George Miller was killed by the falling debris. George Miller was killed by a falling chimney. George Seward, an express wagon driver, was kicked on the head by his horse, which had been blown down by the force of the wind. He fell and the horse rolled on him, causing internal injuries. He may die. The south wall was blown out of Jostyn block, on State street, falling on and crushing a frame building next door. No one was injured. The roof of Geneze's brewing malt house, a part of the roof of Curtis Bro.'s canning factory and part of the spire of St. John's church were blown off. There were many narrow escapes. The wind died away about 2 o'clock.

DAMAGE IN AND AROUND DETROIT. A terrific windstorm has raged in Detroit since last evening. In carrier parts of the night it was accompanied by a heavy rain, but later it turned colder and the rain ceased, while the wind remained violent. Several trees were blown down in the heart of the city, and signs innumerable were found in the city, and signs innumerable were found in the streets this morning. Several large valuable windows were blown in by the force of the gale also.

This morning is the coldest experienced so far this winter, and there is a slight fall of snow. The steamer Ossifrage, which was in winter quarters, was torn from her moorings and blown up the river to Belle Isle, where she stranded. She will probably be got off without damage. Nearly all telephone wires are down, causing much inconvenience to the public. Telegraphic communication is also seriously interrupted. seriously interrupted.

FRUIT TREES IN FULL BLOOM. The Wilmington, Del., Every Evening's Dover correspondent reports: The thermometer yesterday registered from seventy to eighty degrees in the shade, and in the sun went up to 106, and peach buds are so far advanced that a general freeze-up will entirely kill them. William Gehman, living about five miles west of Dover, says that almost all his peach trees are in bloom, and this is not an orchar dof prematures, but of healthy, bearing trees."

THE STORM CAUSES A RAILROAD WRECK. During the heavy gale of last night at Toledo, O., a freight car was blown from a siding at Custer station, thirty-four miles south of Toledo, upon the main track of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, and then driven three miles north, where it collided with the south-bound passenger train leaving here at midnight. The baggage and mail car of the train were wrecked and both engineer of the train were wrecked and both engineer and firemen injured, but not fatally. Passengers in the Pullman were not awakened. The track was cleared at noon today. The gale injured roofs and did minor damages in the vicinity, but the above are the only serious casualties so far reported.

DESTRUCTION OF CLINTON.

A Town on the Mountain Side Swept Away-Loss of Life.

CAIRO, Ill., January 13.—The tornado, which visited Clinton last evening, did considerable destruction to property at Wickliffe. Ky., and also at Moscow, Ky. The storm at Wickliffe was especially disastrous. The following is a partial list of the damage done there: John W. Atwood's dry goods store, Atwood's hotel, Odd Fellows and Masonic hall and Mansfield's restaurant; James Rollen's ivery stable and James Edwards's residence were all blown out. Among those injured are Judge Powell and wife, Mrs. Richard Ferguson, Mrs. Brockman and Mrs. Powell. None were killed. A number of freight cars and two cars used as boarding cars were blown from the track and badly broken

THE PATH OF THE STORM. Meagre reports come from Moscow, where the first traces of the path of the tornado are een. There the Methodist church and school house are in ruins, and in the country between here and Clinton there are said to be numer ous evidences of the storm's fury, though no

The storm passed north of New Madrid To., crossing the river near a point opposite Moscow, thence northwest to Clinton and Wickliffe. The path of the storm was about a quarter of a mile wide, and it left a track of fallen timber through the section of forest it passed before reaching Clinton. The first use struck in Clinton was the section house of the Illinois Central railroad, occupied by John Rhodes and family. The house was torn to splinters, and Rhodes and two children were killed outright. His wife and one child scaped death, but are both dangerously hurt

The killed so far as ascertained are: J. A. RHODES AND HIS TWO CHILDREN. MRS. WM. BONE. BURNETT BONE.

And one other not yet identified. The ounded are Jud E. C. Hodges, wife and two children: G. R. Gwinn, wife, child and father: C. W. Voorhees, child and two relatives, names unknown; Rev. N. W. Little, wife and two children; D. Stubelfield and several memtwo children; D. Studenheid and several members of his family, though not seriously; Mrs. Chester and two children; Mrs. J. A. Rhodes and one child; the latter will die; A. L. Emerson and two children; A. F. Justis and one child; Mr. Jackson, Robert Johnson, Sr., Robert Johnson, Jr., both dangerously. The latter will die. W. R. Nance, wife and child; and others whose names cannot be ascertained.

HELD ON TO HIS BABY. The house of John Gaddis was blown down, and afterwards Gaddis was found) under the debris with an infant in his arms. Gaddis was dead, but the child was not hurt. The house of Robert Johnson, which stood on the brow of of Robert Johnson, which stood on the brow of the hill, was broke into. Johnson was in the lower room and the upper part fell on him, pinning him to the earth with a joist across his back. His moans attracted attention and he was rescued, but badly injured. His son, Robert, was upstairs, and was dangerously hurt by falling timbers. Although suffering intense agony, he begged his rescuers to let him alone and help some one who could live. His brother David, was also badly hurt.

The storm struck the town without the slightest warning. Many knew nothing of it slightest warning. Many knew nothing of it until their roofs were falling about their heads. Before the storm the evening was warm, and a heavy rain had fallen all day, but after the a heavy rain had fallen all day, but after the storm it suddenly turned celd, and a great deal of suffering was caused thereby. It is thought the city will be able to supply all demands for help for the homeless, and a committee is at work seeking aid. Already $1,000 have been subscribed toward the charity fund. The city stood partly on the side of a hill and partly in a valley. It was the portion on the hillside which suffered. Medical assistance was sent from here last night.

G. R. Gwynn's, C. S. Voorhees's, J. W. Gaddis's, Mrs. M. A. Taylor's, W. I. Rudds, D. Stubblefield's, Mrs. R. S. Fostyr's, Robert Johnson's, R. L. Anthony's, F. Subletter's, W. C. Bore's.

The city today presents a dreary aspects but under the circumstances the citizens bear their burdens nobly. The work of helping the destitute and homeless goes forward. Many farmers, whose lands adjoin cities, have come forward and offered shelter and homes to those who have lost their all. The storm was the most destructive that ever visited this section of the country.

HAVOC AT NIAGARA FALLS.

A cyclone struck Niagara Falls today, and the wind attained a velocity of ninety miles an hour and carrying everything before it. Buildings, barns, telegraph poles, trees, railway semaphores and fences toppeled over like straws before it. The greatest sufferers are the Canadian Web company. The wind struck the northwest gable of their fifty by ninety foot, a two-story factory, tearing the roof from the brick walls and tumbling the north and west walls in upon fifteen girls who were employed in winding bobbins for looms in the upper story. All of them escaped except Alice Dickerson, a girl of fifteen, who was buried among bricks and debris. The manager of the company rushed upstairs in the building, which was tumbling down around him, rescued the girl from the debris, and carried her down stairs. The girl was found to have a leg broken and bruised about the body. The Niagara Falls Tobogandebris, and carried her down stairs. The gir was found to have a leg broken and bruised about the body. The Niagara Falls Tobogan-ning slide that stood the cyclone of last Janu-ary, yielded to the force of the storm and went down in a pile of matchwood.

LARGE ELEVATOR BURGED. A Large Conflagration in Baltimore-Several Narrow Escapes.

Baltimore, January 13.—The grand elevator

Baltimore, January 13.—The grand elevator known as the Northern Central Railroad elevator, No. 3, at Lower Canton, in this city, tonight is a smoldering mass of ruins. The elevator itself was worth $300,000, and was insured almost locally. On corn stored there is a loss of $289,000, owned by individual shippers, and fully insured in small policies in local companies. Notwithstanding the great shipments, there are 1,400,000 bushels of grain in Baltimore elevators, and the loss of this elevator is an irreparable calamity to exporters, as there are not adequate facilities to get rid of the glut in the grain trade. The elevator property of the Northern Central railroad was turned over to the Baltimore Elevator company, No. 19 chamber of commerce, on January 1st, and the loss falls on that company.

A STEAMER BURNED.

The British steamer Sacrobasco, lying near the wharf, was entirely destroyed by flames from the burning elevator. The British steamers North whart, was entirely destroyed by hames from the burning elevator. The British steamers North Erin and Rhio had their masts, and rigging and some of their upper work destroyed. Three of the crew of Sacrobasco are missing, and it is believed they were burned to death. They are all Englishmen. Their names are Robert Curus, aged 22, chief engineer; John White, aged 25, fireman; Charles Johnson, aged 27, seaman. Among the crew seriously burned are Charles Appleton, aged 25, (steward); Thomas Knight (colored), cook, New York; Ed Whiteside, aged twenty-nine, and A. J. Robinson, an English seaman. The watchmen discovered the fire at 6 o'clock, and ran to the south end of the building, where the engine room is, to turn open a valve which would let in 599 gallons of water a minute throughout the building. Unfortunately they were too late, and were driven back by the flames and snoke. The flames quickly spread to the British steamers at the wharf, and the sailors aboard the Sacrabasco had no choice but to jump into the water and swim for their lives. Some, whose cries were heard, were picked up after beging in the water two hours. The fire at midwhose cries were heard, were picked up after being in the water two hours. The fire, at midnight, is under control.

Richmond's Electric Railway. RICHMOND, Va., January 13.—A bill was intro-luced in the legislature today to incorporate the Richmond Railway and Electric company. The Richmond Railway and Electric company. The incorporators are Joseph Bryan and W. R. Trieg, of Richmond; D. H. Houghtsling, John Mann ais. G. E. Fisher, of New York. Bryan is owner of the Manchester Railway company, and Fisher is president of the Electric Railway company in the interest of Mrs. Maurice H. Flynn. Three other bills were introduced in connection with the same scheme, which has for its object the merging of all street railway interests under one management, with authority to use either electric or horse power to move cars.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, January 13.—Futures declined three to four points when Liverpool showed a declining tendency, recovered the decline and advanced one to four points when Liverpool closed steady, and lost the improvement and fell five to seven points when the receipts proved to be larger than had been expected. Liverpool sold, but there was a large buying of February and March at one time, understood to be for southern account, and the Greeks also bought to a pretty liberal extent. Southern spot markets were firm or slightly higher. Options were four points lower in Liverpool. Cotton on spot again was weak. The Sun's Cotton Review.

A Motion in the Cronin Case CHICAGO, January 13.—Before Judge McConnell CHICAGO, January 13.—Before Judge McConnell, this morning, a motion for a uew trial in the Cronin case came up, and Mr. Forrest, for the defense, asked that argument be put off for a week, owing to the absence of Judge Wing, one of the defendant's counsel. Any further delay was opposed by the state's attorney, and after considerable discussion the court adjourned argument in the matter until tomorrow.

Willis Hawkins's Penny Paper.

Washington, January 13.—The Washington Capitol, an evening paper of this city, has been sold to Willis B. Hawkins, of the Post, and E. B. Cowen, of Chicago, a newspapor man. It is understood the new proprietors will make the paper a penny daily.

sults offered to him. The government officially assured the minister that the escutcheon would be replaced, all damages repaired and all persons concerned in the outrage punished.

There is a movement for the formation of a patriotic league to put into operation an international boycott against English commerce. The fermentation in the streets continues. Crowds of students in the streets in the neighborhood of the cortes are shouting "Viva Fortugal!" "Viva Pinto!" and at a meeting of students it was proposed to wire congratulations to Serpa Pinto.

At Oporto a public meeting has been called to protest against submission to English demands.

Lisnon, January 13.—The cabinet has resigned. Senior Pimenta, Ilberal conservative leader, voted with the minority at the meeting of the council when the demands of England were acceded to. The minority were in favor of evacuating the Shire districts, but opposed the other demands made by England unless that country submitted the dispute to arbitration forthwith. There is much excitement in the city. Crowds paraded the streets last night, crying: "Viva Pinto!" and "Viva Portugal!"

Senhor Barris de Gomes, at a session of the chamber of peers, made a full statement of the recent negotiations with England. He expressed his regret that he had been unable to consult the cortes in consequence of the very rapid and sudden development of events. He declared that he had always sought to maintain an agreeable understanding with England and hoped the divergent views of the two countries might yet be reconciled. He had done all that lay in his power to maintain the dignity of Portugal, without injuring its interests. The president then announced that the king had accepted the resignation of Senor Barris De Gomes, and had charged Senhor Pimental to construct a cabinet.

The British Grain Trade.

LONDON, January 13.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: The rise in the Bank of England rate threatens holders with increased difficulty in carrying their corn, though little symptoms of yielding are shown. The warm weather of December and January is against good crops. Excessive rainfalls have pushed the plants. Sales of English wheat for the week were 60,182 quarters at 30s per quarter, against 31,150 quarters at 30s 2d for the corresponding week last year. Foreign wheats are steady.

Belgium Thinks It a Good Scheme BRUSSELLS, January 13.—The proposition to settle in the upper Congo country a colony of negroes from the United States meets with much favor here. It is thought this would greatly facilitate the peaceful introduction of the ideas and methods of industry and commerce of the civilized countries. King Leopold and all the Belgian merchants concerned in the African trade favor the scheme.

HE WILL RETURN HOME FOR SCALPS.

Judge Stewart's Work in Congress-He

Washington, January 13. — [Special.]—Colonel R. D. Locke's nomination as postmaster at Macon was sent to the senate to-day. There is no danger of a failure to con-firm him, as Senator Colquitt endorsed him for the place, and will, of course, work for his finence with certain senators, but, as President Harrison says, they have as many favors to ask of him as he of them, consequently they will confirm Locke. Locke said to night:

"Judge Speer's 'position was solely to control patronage. I was sustained by the good, moral people of Macon, and I am going

It has developed today that there is considerable opposition on the republican side to the more radical propositions in Reed's rules. In-deed, it looks as if a modification will have to be made, or else enough republicans will join the democrats to reject the code. The republicans who don't like certain portions of the rules view them in the light that they will be in the minority next time, and want to be willing to abide by the rules which give the speaker dictatorial power. JUDGE STEWART'S WORK.

Judge Stewart has been doing some good work for the farmers. Today he has been cir-culating among the southern congressmen getting them to sign a petition addressed to the ways and means committee, asking that cotton bagging be put on the free list. He succeeded in getting nearly a hundred names, and expects tomorrow to secure a few western signatures. The judge thinks the alliance leaders of Georgia very remiss in not coming on here and arguing before the committee the ecessity of putting bagging on the free list. He also would like to have the alliance men go before the committee on agriculture to in-dorse his bills to test the growth of jute in Accompanying Mr. Hemphill's report is a bill authorizing the members who suffered by the defalcation to being guit against the government in the court of claims.

States were called for the introduction of bills for reference. Among the bills introduced were the following:

By Mr. Fithian, of Illinois, resolution directing the committee on ways and means to report a separate bill placing lumber, salt, jute, hemp, manilla and sisal grass on the free list.

By Mr. Morgan, of Mississippi, placing bagging for cotton on the free list.

By Mr. Stockdale, of Mississippi, for a public building at Natchez, Miss.

By Mr. Dunnell, of Minnesota, to repeat so much of the act of July 1, 1870, as authorizes the leasing of the right to engage in taking fur seals from the islands of St. Paul and George.

Another Anti-Chinese Bill. WASHINGTON, January 13 .- Senator Mitchell today introduced a bill to prohibit the coming of Chinese into the United States, whether subjects of the Chinese empire or otherwise. Those who are now within the limits of the United States and who now within the limits of the United States and who may hereafter leave, and attempt to return are also excluded. Suitable penalties for infringement of the law are provided. The bill provides that only officials of the Chinese empire shall be entitled to enter the United States and they shall first obtain permission of and be identified by their government. It is also provided that any Chinese person who has landed unlawfully in the United States shall be removed at the cost of the government. A bill substantially similar was introduced in the house by Mr. Clunie, of California.

HAWES IS GUILTY.

AND THE SUPREME COURT SAYS THAT HE MUST HANG.

LOWER COURT STRONGLY UPHELD.

And Hawes Is Re-Sentenced to Hang for His Offense-The Prisoner Refuses to Talk

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 13 .- [Special.] The news that the supreme court of Alabama had affirmed the decision of the lower court in the famous Hawes case, caused no surprise here. An affirmation was expected. When told that he had been doomed to die, Hawes bowed his head for a moment, them turned and paced back and forth across his cell a few times. Coming back to the grated door he said : "Death is better than this suspense." "Will you make any statement?" he was "No," he answered. "Give me a table and writing material. I want to write some letters.

Turning to the sheriff he said: "I have no confession to make, and I won't talk. Please don't let anyone in to see me, not even my brother, and keep these reporters away. I won't talk to them."

The prisoner was furnished writing material, and then he refused to say another word to FUTURE TACTICS OF HIS COUNSEL. Hon. E. T. Taliaferro, Hawe's attorney, says he will make a motion in the supreme court for a rehearing of the case, and if that is denied he will then sue out a writ of habeas corpus in the federal court, on the ground that the pris-oner has not been tried by due process of law, according to the fourteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States. Colonel Taliaferro says he will take the case Ito the supreme court of the United States, if necessary, to secure a new trial for the condemn

The supreme court, in affirming the decision against Hawes, decreed that the sentence of death imposed by the criminal court of Jefferson county should be carried into effect on Friday, February 28, 1890. The opinion of the court, delivered by Justice McClellan, is very elaborate, covering every seriously con-tested point presented by the record.

The change of venue was first considered. Three applications were made in the court beow, at different times, severally denied, and exceptions reserved. The evidence in support and denial of each and all the applications was, by agreement, considered in the court below on the third and last petition. The supreme court holds that the last application and the proceeding under it was in the nature of a retrial of the specific issue, and must be considered as a waiver of the exceptions to the rulings of the criminal court on the former considered as a waiver of the exceptions to the rulings of the criminal court on the former application.

"The theory of the prosecution in this case," says the court, "as developed on the trial, was that the defendant conceived that the lives of Emma Hawes, his wife, and of their children, May and Irene, stood between him and the consummation of a second marriage, and hence that the motive which prompted the murder of each of them was the same. There was evidence tending strongly to support this theory, and to show that the death of each one of the victims was but a part of a system in which the lives of all were involved, and on the working out of which to the accomplishment of the defendant's ulterior purpose, the life of each was, in substantially the same manner, ruthlessly sacrificed."

Under these circumstances, evidence connecting the defendant with the murder of his wife and Irene was properly admitted on his trial for the murder of May. Proof of the defendant's marriage in Mississippi was competent as showing a motive for the crimes with which he was charged. The fact of such marriage was properly put in evidence by a transcript was properly put in evidence by a transcript of the register thereof, certified by the custodian of the same, under section 2780 of the code of Alabama. Though the transcript was certified as required by the act of the records of one state in the courts of another, the code of Mississippi was properly admitted to show what officer in that state was act of the records of one state in the courts of another, the code of Mississippi was properly admitted to show what officer in that state was the custodian of the records of marriage. The definitions of murder and manslaughter, given by the court in its general charge, are in accordance with the doctrines elaborately discussed and adopted in Judge's and Mitchell's cases, and many times reaffirmed since then. The criminal court counnitted no error in stating the tendencies of the evidence for the prosecution, and the defense respectively. The evidence appears to have been accurately and fairly set forth on fense respectively. The evidence appears to have been accurately and fairly set forth on either hand by the judge, and his right to this being the facts at issue, to the attention of the jury is undoubted."

A good many exceptions were reserved to the refusal of the trial court to give charges requested by the defendant. These charges are separately examined and each held to be bad on some well-established principle. This part of the opinion concludes as follows:

Moreover, all the charges requested by the defendant and refused, were mere arguments, and most, if not all of them, of themselves, indicate that they were intended to meet some position advanced in arguments on the part of the state. On this ground alone each of them was properly refused.

The opinion of the court concludes as

The opinion of the court concludes as follows:

Every exception reserved in this case has been carefully considered. Every exception argued by the counsel, and several of which were not argued, have been treated in this opinion. There are, however, several exceptions upon which we have not written, because they are patently without merit and because of our desire to set some limit to our opinion already very long. We find no error in the record, and the judgment of the Jefferson county criminal court is affirmed.

HAWES WILL COMMIT SUICIDE. HAWES WILL COMMIT SUICIDE. The opinion that Hawes will not die on the gallows is gaining ground. It is believed if he loses all hope of a new trial or executive clemency, he will commit suicide, even if he is compelled to resort to the most desperate and unusual method to accomplish it. Since his threat to take his life several weeks ago, when a cord was found concealed in his bunk, when a cord was found conceased in his ound, he has been in solitary confinement under close surveilance. He will now be watched day and night. But if the guard should at any time fall asleep, he may awake to find the prisoner a dead man. Hawes has said he would never die on the gallows, and a man of his iron nerve will keep his word.

A Reward for Ready.

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 13.—Governor Richardson has today offered a reward of five hundred dollars for the apprehension of David Ready, white, perpetrator of the latest outrage in Barnwell county. On the 8th instant, he took William Black, a negro, charged with theft, from the constable in charge, tied Black to a tree and shot him to death. Ready is said to have gone to Augusta, Ga., and the police are searching for him there. This is the largest reward ever offered by Governor Richardson for the apprehension of a criminal.

CLAIMING A COUNTY

THREE WESTERN MEN CLAIM THE WHOLE OF CAMDEN

Their Claims Run Back for a Century-The Surveyor Afraid of Being Mobbea by the Present Holders.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., January 13 .- [Special.]-It is the wild western way to claim a whole county. And three men from the wild west are claiming Camden county, Ga., with part of Charlton, Wayne and Glynn, altogether 175,000 acres.

They are J. C. Pike, of Iowa; O. D. Peck of Wisconsin, and a representative of the Missouri Valley Land company. They came to Brunswick to look after the claim, and wrote to Mr. B. A. Broome, the surveyor of Camden, to meet them there. To the Brunswick Times Mr. Broome told the story:

"The first residents of Camden county, and I refer to old Camden, as consisting of its present area, together with that of Charlton and Wayne and a part of Glynn, were the Middletons, Bryants, Weeds, Seagroves and Jacksons. Some of these families held prop-Jacksons. Some of these families held property under grants issued by George III, of England, while others held property under grants issued by the state of Georgia. These families owned the whole of It was impossible for any one to become an owner of property in the county save by purchasing from the owners, who seemed to realize that fact, and placed such a ficticious value on the land as to exclude purchasers Together with this, the owners failed to pay any taxes, either to the county or state. It really seemed that the vast area included in really seemed that the vast area included in Camden county was destined to be comparatively uninhabited.

"Taking all these things into consideration, Nathan Atkinson introduced a bill in the legalature providing that a tenant could lawfully retain a piece of property when he had lived on the same for a term of seven years in undisputed possession. That bill finally became a law and no sooner was the governor's signature affixed than people began pouring into Camden and took possession of as much property as the law would allow.

"About this time the Middletons, Bryants and Jacksons disposed of their claim to the property to these parties in the west. The then owners paid no attention to the new Georgia law, and pretty soon a number of people owned property in Camden by virtue of the seven years undisputed possession. When that fact became known, a man named Primrose was sent down there from Philadelphia to make a complete survey of the claimed lands. He didn't stay there long, however. The citizens didn't care to have their rights trampled on and four men were accordingly detailed to escort Mr. Primrose out of the country, dead or alive. Those four men started out on their errand, but they didn't find Mr. Primrose—he had gotten scent of what was awaiting him, and had made his exit. Now the claimants want to get hold of that property, and set up two or three tremendous mills, and they want me to show them the property.

"Do you expect to accommodate them?"

"Well, on two conditions: First, I must be insured against any danger that may befall me at the hands of the citizens; and second, I must be insured a fair sum from the claimants."

"Do you apprehend any trouble from the ants."

"Do you apprehend any trouble from the "Do you apprehend any citizens?"

"Why, man, if those people over there thought I was in with the cliamants and was attempting to get hold of the property, they would cut me into mince meat. Oh, I'll tell you the case is fearfully involved and there's no telling how it will terminate."

HE MAY BE LYNCHED,

And If He Was, No Tears Would Be Shed

Over the Lynching.
PALMETTO, Ga., January 13.—[Special.]-There is great excitement in a neighborhood about five miles west of here, over an outrage committed on a white lady by a negro named Kit Bustian. It took place this morning about 8 or 9 o'clock, while the husband of the woman was in town. When he returned home and found out about it, he went and swore out a warrant, and had Bustian arrested. The officers and his posse went to Bustian's home to arrest him, where he was in hiding, and Bustian's people wanted to resist the officers, but while they were looking for him, an excited crowd began to gather, and Bustian's father agreed to give him up to the officers to give him up to the officers if they would protect him, which they did, and brought him to town safely. The crowd very quickly dispersed, but the offense took place in Coweta county, and the officer has commodation train. Some fears are entertained that the train will be held up and Bustian taken off and lynched before he reaches Newnan. Bustian has no sympathizers amongst the colored people. He has been in several smaller scrapes, but this is the second case of this kind, for he committed rape on a negro girl about fourteen years old about a month ago. He is a worthless negro, not bright, except in rascality, and does not seem to realize the trouble he is in, though he stoutly asserts his innocence in both cases.

THE ARTESIAN WELL.

What Shall Be Done About It-A Sugges-

The consternation occasioned by the proposition to shut down the artesian well, has induced The Constitution to seek for some practical remedy for the impurity of the water, as shown by the ard of health.

Mr. J. C. Kimball has submitted several sug gestions on this line. He was called upon yester-day for his further views. In reply to a question day for his further views. In reply to a question as to the cause of the present impurity of the water, Mr. Kimball said:

"It is a well known fact that the underlying strata below the surface alluvial deposit is seamed and cracked in a thousand directions to a considerable depth, and that water falling upon the surface sinks through the earthy deposits and finds its way to the crevices below; sometimes to the depth of three or four hundred feet. This is especially characteristic of this particular region. In drilling the artesian well this was fully demonstrated, and it certainly ought to have been known that without some efficient means to arrest it, this surface water, with all its contamination, must find its way into the well, and yet nothing of the kind was ever attempted, and the result is what I have looked for."

"So you think all this impurity comes from surface water?"

have looked for."

"So you think all this impurity comes from surface water?"

"Undoubtedly. Was not the water at first pronunced perfectly pure? And has not its contamination been steadily increasing? Where does it come from? Surely not from a depth of 1,169 feet, with 700 feet of absolutely solid rock above it. No, sir; it comes from the surface, and nowhere else."

above it. No, sir; it comes from the surface, and nowhere else."

"Can this surface water be shut out?"

"As surely as you can stop the flow from that hydrant by closing the valve. The plan is as old as arsesian wells, and as certain as any device of human skill. You may know something of the oil wells of Pennsylvania, or of the salt wells of Syracuse, N. Y. If so, you know that the first step after the completion of any of these is to shut off all surface water and all crevices above the oil or salt deposits. Wells would be utterly worthless without, and you may be sure that engineering skill has found a simple, cheap and perfectly effective way to do it, and that is just what must be done with our well. "Pack" the space between the pipe and walls of the well, at a depth of 450 to 500 feetand then with one big vein protected by 700 feet jof solid rock, contamination is impossible. I trust The Construction will push its inquiries until the right plan is found and acted upon. It would be folly to throw away the $25,000 the well cost, and the loss of the well itself would be felt more than several times its cost.

THE OLDEST MAN YET.

GOVERNOR GORDON RECEIVES VISIT FROM J. HIRAM LESTER.

One Hundred and Twenty Years Old as Able to Walk from the Carshed to the Capitol—He Thinks His Property Stolen. One hundred and twenty years ago John Hiram Lester was born.

Yesterday he arrived in Atlanta and made his way on foot from the railroad depot to the capitol to see the governor.

It was early in the afternoon when Mr. Lester started on what was to him a terribly long walk. As he passed through the streets, me and women stopped and gazed after him, sur-prised to see so strange a figure tottering along What the people saw was a form that had once been tall, bent and leaning on a staff. A road-brimmed hat covered the few whit locks which still streamed about the face, and it was in the face that the great interest lay. The old coat with big patches on it, the jeans trousers and the hob-nail shoes, were all forgotten in looking at the features of the aged man, seamed about with a thousand wrinkles with toothless jaws and almost sightless eyes-with toothless jaws and almost sightless eyes—there was yet the dignity of a supernatural age about him which commanded respect.

Not until he reached the steps leading to the capitol did the old man pause. There he stopped, unable to go farther because his strength was not sufficient to enable him to climb the stairs. Finally a stranger passed, and seeing the old man's trouble lent him the help of a strong arm, and never left him till he was seated in the governor's office.

he was seated in the governor's office.

Mr. Lester was terribly disappointed when he heard that Governor Gordon was not in the city. He said that he had come from his home in McDonough, on purpose to see the governor, and he would have to return immediately. The object of his visit was to tell the trouble he was in about some paper, which he claimed had been taken from him, and without, which, his property would be taken from him. He said that he had friends in Henry county, but as they would not do anything for him towards regaining the paper, he had determined to ask the governor's assistance.

The aged man was a little incoherent about the paper. He imagined that it was a wedding contract, and in it his wife gave him all the property which she possessed, and on which he now lives. The date of his marriage he was unable to recall, but he knew that he was nearly fifty years old when the ceremony was performed, and his wife died in 1882 at the age of eighty.

Three of his sons had been killed fighting on the confederate side. When Sherman came through Georgia Lester was thrown on the charity of Henry county, and he remembered being in the poor house for a time. After that some of his property was recovered and he was able to support himself.

One of his sons still lives, but the old man spoke of his boy sadly. He said that he was over seventy years old, and his eyes were gone, so that he was unable to take care of himself. Some of the gentlemen at the capitol knew Mr. Lester. Colonel BobHardeman remembered that once during Governor McDaniel's administration the old man made his way to Atlanta just as he did yesterday, and he then had some He remembered taking part in some was

A BOLD ROBBERY. A Thief Snatches a Young Lady's Pocket-

Yesterday evening, at a quarter to six o'clock, Miss Minnie Cohen was on her way to her home, No. 161 Ivy street, with a lady friend. The two had left the Loyd street crossing and walked down Decatur to Ivy, and when near the mouth of an alley, Miss Cohen felt somebody snatch her satchel from her hand. She thought that her cousin, who lives near, had done this in fun, but on turning around she saw that it was a negro man, and he was running up the aley.

The ladies raised the alarm, but failed to find a policeman until they reached the Young Men's Christian association, but the patrolman there could not leave his beat.

They then went to the stationhouse and reported the matter, leaving a description of the satchel, with the pocketbook in it. and its contents. with the pocketbook in it, and its contents.

The thief succeeded in getting several dollars in change, and made good his escape. It was a bold robbery, committed on one of the most frequented streets in the city.

The police are at work on the case, and have a good description of the thief.

KILLED AT MARIETTA

While Attempting to Steal a Ride on Freight Train.

Ed. King, an Atlanta negro, was killed last night at Marietta, by a north-bound freight train at 8:30 o'clock.

It is supposed that he was killed while attempting to get on a box car while the train was in motion, or while attempting to swing on the cab, was pulled under the wheels. The body was badly more than two bours the at 8:30 o'clock. angled and for more than two hours th nangled remains laid upon the track. The acci mangled remains laid upon the track. The accident happed between the railroad crossing near Chuck Anderson's livery stable and the Kennesaw house. When the body was found King was breathing his last. The body was taken from the railroad track and carried to the Western and Atlantic depot at Marietta, and placed upon a flat car, where it will remain guarded until this morning, when the coroner's inquest will be held.

King is a bright mulatto negro, about thirty years of age. He was seen in Marietta yesterday afternoon and it is supposed in trying to board the freight train was killed as stated. It is thought that King is a barber and works at Rucker's shop in this city, on Decatur street. After the inquest this morning King's remains will be brought to Atlanta for burial.

AT THE THEATER,

Sweet little Lavender was the central figure in one of the most charming plays which the Lyceum theater has presented to the American public, and Atlanta adds her verdict of approval—though it is not needed—to this unqualified success.

Under Mr. Frohman's management, the Lyceum mame and the Lyceum indorsement stand as the highest credentials which a play can bear. A few weeks since Atlanta was given an open structure.

weeks since Atlanta was given an opportunity to enjoy "The Wife," now it is "Sweet Lavender." The play is a domestic comedy of the distinctly Lyceum stripe. It is a tender, simple and sweet, lways interesting, and almost always amusing one that holds the sympathy of the audience throughout. It is full of fine humor, and is enter-taining at all times. The situations are sharp and strong, the characters are well drawn, and the play has about it everything to indicate the great ess it has been.

That the company producing it is a Lyceum company is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence in every part. It is an excellent company every man and woman in it is excellent in his or her role. Mr. Montaine, Mr. Scott, Mr. Burbank, Mr. Backus, Mr. Findlay—it is hard to say which deserves highest commenda-tion. Mr. Burbank, as Dick Phenyl, gave one of the most thoroughly excellentilits of acting we have ever seen. Mr. Scott is handsome and manly as Clement Hale, the ideal of the role. Mr. Backus, a clever young actor who is fast going to the front, was a decided favorite as Horace Bream, the very American young American. Mr. Montaine as Wedderburn, and Mr. Findlay as the doctor, interpreted their roles intelligently and artistically.

The ladies are equally good. Miss Lilian Chantore, a metropolitan favorite and a decidedly handsome woman, proved a most attractive Minnie Gilfillian. Little Miss Ethelyn Friend was the embodiment of all that was sweet and lovable as Lavender. Miss Lester, as Mrs. Rolt, and Miss Pike, as Mrs. Gilfilian, were prominent figures in the play, and added to the excellence of the company.

There is not a member of the company but comes up to *he high standard required, "Sweet Lavender" is an exquisite play, presented by a superior company. Matinee this afternoon, and evening performance.

THE POLICE COMMISSION.

Three Patrolmen on Trial on Various Charges.

The police commission did some weeding out last night, and three patrolmen were dropped from the force.]

Captain English, Commissioners Lester, Stephens, Brown and Mayor Glenn were in their places, but Captain Brotherton was absent.

The case against Patrolman T.P. Aldridge, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and attempting to shoot, and striking Patrolmen R.E. Lawshe, was the first case called. Defendant pleaded guilty to a part of the charge, but denied attempting to shoot, and denied being guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer. Aldridge was represented by Mr. W. T. Moyers, and Lawshe by Mr. Burton Smith; Messrs. Arnold Broyles and H. R. Broyles represented Patrolman Broderick, who was also on trial.

Lawshe, charged with entering he storeroom at police headquarters and taking a blanket and appropriating it to his own use, and of taking a jug of liquor out of the store house of B. M. Leftwick and appropriating it to his own use. The charge against W. T. Broderick was for assisting Lawshe in removing the liquor from Leftwick's store.

Both pleaded not guilty.

A number of witnesses were examined, and the story which has appeared in these columns before, was rehearsed again by defendants and various witnesses of the affray growing out of the charges, which involved Aldridge in the trial.

witnesses of the affray growing out of the charges, which involved Aldridge in the trial.

THE JUG LOOKED NATURAL.

A good deal of merriment was caused when Leftwick gave in his testimony in regard to the jug. He said that he had left the jug in the cooler, and that he had lest the key to tle door. Lawshe told him on Friday afterwards that he had removed the jug and left it in charge of a negro at a bakery. Afterwards the officers asked him to go to the police station to identify a jug.

"Did you identify it?" he was asked.

"No, but it looked mighty natural."

"Did you taste of it?"

"Yes, I took a drink from it."

"Did it taste natural?"

"Yes, it tasted like the same old corn liquor."

"Did you smell any on the policemen's breath at the stationhouse?"

"No; I had taken a drink myself, and I couldn't smell it on their breath after that."

erick had told Slaughter about assisting him to carry the whisky.

"I said that had I been off duty, Lawshe might have caught me the same way, and I would profit by his well paid experience."

"That isn't what you told me, "said Mr. Broyles.

"Then I am swearing to a lie, am I?"

Chairman English rapped for order, and a little hubbub ensued, but Mr. Broyles was allowed to make his statement, and said:

"Slaughter told me that he did not think Broderick did anything wrong, and that any accomundating man would have helped Lawshe carry the whisky, and used the words, I would have done it, myself."

The difference in language used seemed to be the trouble between the witness and the attorney, as the purport was the same.

Fred Byers, at whose baker shop the jug of corn liquor was found, told how he found the jug stuck between two barrels.

That was the shop at which Lawshe claimed to have carred the jug on the night he found Leftwick's door open.

to have carred the jug on the night he found Leftwick's door open.

Three witnesses were introduced who swore that Broderick was on his beat continuously from midnight unit 8 o'clock in the morning of the 9th of December, when the jug of liquor was lost.

Broderick and Lwshe denied carrying any whiskey except a little half pint flask, which Lawshe said a man left for him Monday morning.

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., January 13.—[Special.] Last night, at a dance on Mr. Andrew Price's place near High Shoals, a fight occurred, as usual on such occasions, and the pistol got in its deadly work. Pierce Jones shot Scott Long in the left eye, killing him instantly. The negro, Pierce Jones, came into Watkins ville this morning, and surrendered himself to Sheriff Overby, and was placed in jail to await his trial at the January term of Oconee superior court. From eye-witnesses to the killing is it learned that Jones was justifiable, Oconee now has two murderers in jail.

Oconee now has two murderers in jail.

Another account says: As is usually the case, liquor flowed pretty freely, and by 11 o'clock quite a number of the men were tipsy. It was about this time that a woman became involved in a quarrel with a man named Percy Jones. Another negro, named Scott Long, who had come from Monroe, Walton county, interfered and took the woman's part. This immediately put the woman out of the quarrel, and the men fought. Jones struck Long with a stick and Long, drawing his pistol, snapped it at Jones. The pistol did not go off, and Jones retreated to the door. Long fired several shots, none taking effect, when Jones, taking deliberate aim, sent a bullet crashing through his adversary's brain. Long was instantly killed and Jones fied. He went to the house of Mr. E. P. Frazer and gave himself stantly killed and Jones fied. He went to the house of Mr. E. P. Frazer and gave himself up. The coroner held an inquest over the remains and reached a verdict, placing the guilt upon Percy Jones.

ACCIDENTS IN ALBANY.

A Bicyclist Run Over and Hurt-Mr. Tucket Severely Bruised.

Severely Bruised.

Albany, Ga., January 13.—[Special.]—This morning, while Mr. A. W. Tucker was driving down town, the horse became frightened and, running into the palingslof the Methodist church, threw Mr. Tucker out against the church steps, bruising him severely. Running on a little further the driver was precipitated out, and the sulky wrecked.

This afternoon, while Mr. Shadrack Atkinson drove down Broad street, Gray Brown, a son of T. B. Brown, came across the street on his bicycle. He was directly in front of the horse and too late to escape. He fell, bicycle on top, and the horse and buggy passed over him. He was considerably hurt, but fortunately not seriously so.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Purest and the Best.

This is an age of adulteration and cheap goods. Most every article has its counterpart in something cheaper. Groceries are adulterated in almost every conceivable form. Take sugar, for instance. It is very seldom you can get the pure, genuine stuff. It is that way with Tobacco and Cigars. Probably in no business is the adulteration carried to such an extent as in cigar making. It is right cleverly done, too. A fair-looking and unobjectionable wrapper is filled with trash; merely the pickings and scraps around a tobacco factory .The filling is subjected to chemicals, and furnishes a right decent smoke for the time being. In fact, you can hardly tell whether you are smoking a strictly pure Havana cigar or one of a cheap and adulterated grade. The effect may be observed afterward. While a cheap cigar may be smoked with almost as much pleasure and scarcely feel the effect at the time, yet it will have a deleterious bearing on the human system. There is wherein the danger lies in smoking cheap cigars. It is an old saying, and one that is strictly true, that "it is the best to get the best." Good goods, pure goods, are never hurtful. Instead of having a hurtful character, they have more of a building up, invigorating effect. There is nothing so invigorating, so restful, so delicious, and that drives away care more effectively than a real first-class cigar.

It is our intention to call your attention to two brands that have the approval of connoiseurs all over the country. These brands have been weighed in the balance and found not wanting. To a thoughtful person it is almost useless to call their attention to these brands. They know them. They have used them. The brands of the cigars referred to, are:

"The Rabbit Foot."

"The Three Kings."

They are manufactured by the celebrated house of Lichtenstein Bros., of New York, and are sold to the trade by Harralson Bros. & Co., of this city. Lichtenstein Bros. are probably the best cigar manufacturers in America, and turn out only the very best class of goods. These cigars are retailed at 5 cents. They are regarded by many to be as good as the regular 10-cent cigar. They are sold to the southern and southwestern trade through the large wholesale house of Harralson Bros. & Co. So popular have they become since being placed on the market that there is scarcely a town throughout the southeastern states that these cigars are not well and favorably known. If you have not had an opportunity to buy them, ask your dealer to order you a box. They furnish a mild, pleasant, restful smoke. sun tues fri

Possession by the defendant in attachment of the personalty attached, on the day of the levy and for some time previously, he using and controlling the same apparently as his own, makes a prima facie mass against the claimants; and if, in reply thereto, they show only the admissions of the defendant in favor of their title, and a surrender of possession to them by him accordingly a few hours before the levy was made, failing to adduce fuller and more satisfactory evidence which, were their claim well founded, they might have adduced a verdict finding the

for the debtor?"

(a.) The general rule that purchase money, notes transferred without endorsement or guaranty, lose their character as such, and that the holder becomes no more than an ordinary creditor, does not apply in this case, as between that holder and the debtor himself, especially as they were secured by mortgage creating a lien for the purchase money, which lien was discharged by the money borrowed. 80 Ga. 746, and 78 Ga. 173, distinguished.

growed. 80 Ga. 740, and 78 Ga. 173, distinguished.

3. That the lender of the money used to pay off the prior mortgage liens charged usury, did not deprive him of the equitable rights resulting from the application of his money to the discharge of the mortgages, the discharge of which was requisite for the debtor to have a homestead at all which would be free from in numbrances. 75 Ga. 837.

A Card from Jim Blue, of Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., January 10.—Editors Constitution: In a paper published by W. A. Piedger, of date, December 21, 1888, appeared the following editorial paragraph: "Jim Blue, the ex-negro leader of Glynn county, had a son to go crazy in consequence of the old man joining the democratic party." I have not only been in deep trouble, due to the insanity of my son, and under the necessity of sending him to the asylum, but also due to the serious illness of my wife, which has prevented my noticing before, this outrageous also due to the serious illness of my wife, which has prevented my noticing before, this outrageous and cruel paragraph, from a man of my own race, editing a paper in this state, and assuming to be a leader among the colored people of the state. It is well known here that I have never joined the democratic party—that I have always and consistently been a republican, but it is equally well known that I have been upon the side of good government, and anxious that the people of my race in Glynn county and elsewhere should so conduct themselves as to merit the record and esteem duct themselves as to merit the regard and esteem of all the intelligent and patriotic people of Geor-gia. I do not suppose that the editor and manager of the Atlanta News, W. A. Pledger, after the of the Atlanta News, W. A. Pledger, after the cruel, unprovoked and untrue paragraph above quoted, would give space in his paper to a card from me; but whether he would or not, I desire to give publicity to this card in a paper which, whatever its politics, has always been true to the best interests of the people of the state of Georgia, without regard to color, and I ask that this card be promptly published in your paper as my response to this cruel, unprovoked and untrue attack of W. A. Pledger. Very truly yours,

James Blue.

Virginia's Elocutionist.

The Y. M. C. A. have secured the services of Professor Gilbert Walden, of Virginia, the celebrated elocutionist, for an entertainment on Friday next, January 17th, at 8 p. m., in their association hall. Professor Walden has given over one thousand entertainments, and comes highly recommended by some of the finest actors of the land. He is the only American reader, besides Nelson Page, of his beautiful negro war stories, in which he is unexcelled. His liberal repertoire of both humorous and dramatic selections, many of which have never been recited before, embrace "Mars Chan," "Meh Lady," "Une Edinburg's Drowntin," "King Solomon, of Kentucky," etc., etc.

The Rome Tribune, of Georgia, says: "Professor Gilbert Walden, the gifted Virginia elocutionist, closed his engagements in our city last evening to a large audience at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association. Mr. Walden has easily convinced the people of Rome of his ability, and leaves the queen city with many friends who will await his return to favor them with another series of special readings.

In dialect he is immense; in tragedy he is splendid; while in impersonations and humorous recitals, he excels any who have visited our city.

In the rendition of the "Last Light from Over the Range," he brought many of his auditors to tears, whose repeated applause showed their high appreciation of his eloquent recitals."

Admission, 50 cents. Music furnished by the association. All members of the association admitted free on presentation of membership ticket. Virginia's Elocutionist.

The Burglars in the "Stowaway." "Kid" McCoy and "Spike" Hennessey, the safe-blowers who crack a safe nightly in "The Stowaway," were knocked out, so to speak, the other night in Philadelphia, by an unexpected ringing remark from a young street gamin who sat in the gallery. It happened this wise: After the burglars finished their job in blowing off the door of the safe and riffing it of its contents, they were suddenly confronted by the hero of the play enacted by Joseph Slaytor, who picks up a huge revolver from the table where it had been placed by one of the safe destroyers. At the performance in question, as Slaytor raised the pistol aloft in a threatening maner, the young gallery good shricked in a terror stricken voice: "Lookout, Kid, the guy has got the gun." For an instant Slaytor and the merry burglars were fairly dazed. Then the great theater resounded with applause, and all heads were turned in the direction from whence the note of warning came. The cracksman's juvinile sympathizer turned out to be a diminutive seven-year-old bootblack.

"Enoch Arden." The magnificent scenic and lyric production of "Enoch Arden," by the popular romantic actor Newton Beers, was given at Hooley's theater, Chicago, for the first time on July 7th, and enjoyed a run of fifty consecutive nights. Mr. Beer's tour through the country is one of the events of the present theatrical season, owing to the size of the production, which in its mere incidental expenditures involves an outlay of $10,000. Heretofore all dramatic productions of "Enoch Arden" have depended largely on the charm of the story, but when the literary beauty of the play is adorned with the genius of art, it may safely be said that the forthcoming production is one that will appeal to all lovers of that which is highest and noblest on the stage. A special set of scenery is carried by Mr. Beers, which can be adapted to small or large stages. This guarantees a perfect staging of the play in every city where the company are booked to appear. All the great scenic effects are promised in our city next Friday and Saturday nights exactly as advertised. A splendid entertainment may be expected. cago, for the first time on July 7th, and enjoyed a

In many instances it has been proven that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by Blood Balm Co-Atlanta, Ga., will cure blood poison in its worse phases, even when all other treatment fails. A. P. Brunson, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had 24 running ulcers on one leg and 6 on the other, and felt greatly prostrated. I believe I actually swallowed a barrel of medicine, in vain efforts to cure the disease. With little hope I finally acted on the urgent advice of a friend, and got a bottle of B. B. B. I experienced a change, and my despondency was somewhat dispelled. I kept using it until I had taken sixteen bottles, and all the ulcers, rhenmatism and all other horrors of blood poison have disappeared, and at last I a \ sound and well again, after an experience of twenty years of tor-Robt. Ward, Maxey, Ga., writes: "My disease was pronounced a tertiary form of blood poison.

My face, head and shoulders were a mass of corruption, and finally the disease began eating my skull bones. My bones ached; my kidneys were deranged, I lost flesh and strength, and life bederanged, I lost ness and strength, and life be-came a burden. All said I must surely die, but nevertheless, when I had used ten bottles of B. B. B. I was pronounced well. Hundred of sears can now be seen on me. I have now been well ove twelve months."

READ THIS LETTER. "For years I have been afflicted with bad Digestion, Constipation and Piles. I have tried all the medicines I could get hold of but all in vain. Even my physicians could not relieve my costiveness. In the meantime I struggled under great pain. Life was a burden. Two weeks ago I saw the Chicago "Times," and my eye fell on an advertise-meats [2] util Fills. I decided to try them. They have worked wonderfully. They keep me regular, don't make me sick, give me an appetite and are curing my piles. I am strong and can walk any distance. If I had had these pills five years ago they would have saved me $10,000; but they have saved my life. Let the afflicted everywhere know their value, which is beyond expression."

"MOTHER'S FRIEND"

MEATS ROASTED IN THEIR OWN JUICES, BY USING THE

WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR FOUND EXCLUSIVELY ON THE CHARTER OAK STOVES RANGES.

There is not a Cooking Apparatus made using the Solid Oven Door but that the loss in weight of meat is from twenty-five to forty per cent. of the meat reasted. In other words, a rib of beef, weighing ten pounds if reasted medium to well-done will lose three pounds. The same roasted in the CHARTER OAK RANGE using the WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR, loses about one pound.

To allow meat to shrink is to lose a large portion of its juices and flavor. The fibres do not separate, and it becomes tough, tasteless and unpalateable. Charter Oak Stoves and Ranges with Wire Gauze Oven Doors, are Manufacture by the Excelsior Manufacturing Co., St. Louis, Mo., and Sold by HUNNICUTT & BELLINGRATH, Sole Agts., Atlanta, Ca.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 14, 1890.

Northern Shotgun Law.

Even in a young city like Atlanta the citi zens recognize the force of the old maxim that the welfare of the people is the supreme

In certain minor regulations, considered essary by the board of health and the re authorities, the people are sometimes inconvenienced, but they have alvs cheerfully yielded in order to promote the general good of the community. Some when we have been in danger of an pidemic of small pox, men who did not bee in vaccination have obeyed the order to dopt this safeguard. Persons stricken down by the disease in their own homes have allowed themselves to be removed to the place set apart for them by the authorities.

It has been reserved for Philadelphia, a city that boasts of its law and order sentiment, to set us a different example, and this example comes from a higher source than the rabble-it comes from a conservator of the peace, a sworn officer of the law. It seems that a man who had the measles was sent by mistake to the small pox hospital. For this he demanded damages. In the progress of the suit Judge Thayer incidentally remarked from the bench that the man was not obliged to go to the hospital, even if he had the small pox.

"It is the law," said Attorney Dubois, "and the city does compel them to go-takes them by force."

"The city has no such right," replied Judge Thayer, "and I would shoot the man who would come into my sick room to take me to such a hospital.'

The lawyer admitted that he would do the same, and the judge volunteered the opinion that he would be acquitted by a jury if he killed the city's officer under such circum-

Now, what is this but shotgun law, advo cated and taught from the bench? The Philadelphia judge boldly says, in substance, that when he does not think that a law is right he will resist its enforcement.

Such ideas lead to anarchy. We must obey the laws, no matter whether they are good or bad. A citizen may think that he has a right to stay at home when he has a contagious disease like small pox or yellow fever, but he must bow to the will of the community. He may think that he has a right to carry a pistol in his pocket, but when the law forbids it he must obey. A countryman may believe that he has a right to turn his own corn, grown on his own land, into whisky, but he must not set up his opinion against the powers that be. In any of these cases the citizen who resists the law with a shotgun in his hand is guilty of murder if he kills an officer. This is the southern view, held by our judges and people alike. If we have a Judge Thayer in our midst he has not yet shown himself. Sometimes we have a little shotgun law administered by irresponsible parties, but our judges and lawyers do not teach it to the people

An All Round Show.

Perhaps the biggest and most diversified scheme for our world's fair in 1892, is the one suggested by Mr. Charles S. Keyser, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Keyser says that it will not do to hold the fair in one city. It must be held in several places. The event to be celebrated is the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America. The celebration should show a representation of Columbus's voyage. accompanied by vessels representative of the development of navigation since that time. The different nationalities concerned in the settlement of the country should take an active part in the celebration. The government of Spain should send three vessels like those commanded by Columbus, with modern war and merchant vessels. The other European powers should send their best ships. The ports of the colonies settled by the English should be the landing places of the British fleet. Spain, Holland, Germany, and France should send fleets to the localities colonized by those countries. Then the foreign delegations should meet at Washington and accompanied by the heads of the federal and state governments and congress, proceed

This exposition Mr. Keyser would divide into four branches: Atlanta, an exhibit of the agricultural, horticultural and mining products of the southeastern states; San Francisco, a similar exhibit of the products of the southwest; Chicago or St. Louis, a northwestern exhibit: New York, an exhibit of the manufactures, mines and agriculture of the middle and eastern states.

Mr. Keyser goes on to say: These four exhibitions, illustrating our four hundred years of progress, would be heighted in interest by including exhibits from other catrics; as the southern nations of Europe 1 tries; as the southern nations of Europe have been instrumental in developing the civilization of the southern section of our country, exhibits from Spain, Italy, France and Africa could be made at Atlanta.

Exhibits from England, and other countries of middle Europe, at the New York exhibition. From Germany, Norway Sweden and other countries of northern Europe, at the Chicago ex-

A display of Russian, Australian and Japanese

In this way the various countries of the world ould be represented in these exhibitions in the centers of their own resulting populations. By thus dividing the exhibitions into four sections the bulk of the whole country would be enabled, on account of comparative nearness, to see, at least,

The committee of congress with the representatives of foreign nations, leaving Washington im-mediately after the 14th of October, would first proceed to Atlanta, then to San Francisco, then to 8t. Louis and Chicago, where there would be a display of the merchant marine of that section, on the lake, as a feature; then proceed, by way of the great lakes, down the Hudson, where they would be accompanied by the steamers of that river and the sound, to New York, where the several fleets should, in the meanwhile, rendezvous, and where the final display should take place. Ap International Naval Review, celebrating the victories of peace, in which, for the first time in human history, vessels of all nations would meet on common ground—honor to the discoverer of this new world, ground—honor to the discoverer of this new world, in the interests of peace.

A month should be devoted to this tour, which would be in the nature of a triumphal march from sea so sea, across the continent which he gave to The whole event should be in charge of a com mittee of congress.

The natural jealousy which would exist in the granting of an exclusive appropriation to any one section of the country would be avoided by this nanner of celebration

Undoubtedly, all this is magnificent, but world's fair should not be peddled out in this way. The proposed tour of the foreign visitors over the continent is a capital idea. but the exposition itself should be held at a suitable and convenient point. All the exhibits must be together. If they are divided the branch fairs will all be provincial shows.

A Northern Man's Views. Generally speaking, the letters that are sent north by the correspondents traveling in the south do not rise above the dead-level of well-known facts and statistics that have been used over and over again and that are easily obtainable in the hand-books and census reports; but, occasionally, one of these correspondents happens to be a man of affair and of observation, and when that is the case his letters are as interesting to the southern people as they are to the people of the north.

One of these rare correspondents, Mr. F. B. Norton, has written a letter to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, and he makes a summary of his observations in the south that is unusually striking and interesting. One fact that struck Mr. Norton's attention is the temperate and beautiful character of the southern weather in the summer, a period when, according to the general belief at the north, everybody, except the negro field-hands, is compelled to get in the shade in order to keep from sweltering to death. Northern men who have been living in the south for many years say that the summer climate here is healthier and more tolerable than that of the north, and Mr. Norton has discovered that the region where the statelines of Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee unite has been the homes of the longest-lived people in all our history.

He declares that the time has come when the tide of emigration should be turned from the west to the south; that the most gigantic business mistake of recent years has been made by the farmers who have passed by the great border states, offering the best climate and every possible natural source of wealth and have scattered themselves over a million square miles of naked plains, devoid of coal, iron, and even timber, and where all they buy and all they sell must stand the exhaus tive tax of a thousand miles of transporta tion. To this Mr. Norton adds some inter esting facts and comments: The greatest curse the farming of the south has inherited from slavery is the absence of grass land. They will spend half the year in trying with their clumsy hoes to kill out the native grasses among their cotton, and then tell you grass won't grow in the south. The great majority of southern armers still cling to the old plan of the planters of skinning all the plow-land with cotton, tobacco and corn, and never giving it any rest in grass.

With the brilliant and beautiful exception of the blue grass region of central Kentucky and Tennessee, the south looks naked and forlorn to a nessee, the south looks naked and forforn to a northern farmer. There are, however, many native grasses that grow luxuriently and our northern red clover thrives especially on lands that have been pastured. I saw red clover and grasses growing vigorously on soil, if you could call it soil, near Birmingham, composed only of clay and coarse quartz gravel. Mr. G. M. Ryals, a market gardener near Savannah, Ga., is accustomed to let the crowfoot and crab grass grow up spontane-ously as one of the two or three crops his land produces annually. He said it sometimes reached a growth of six feet in a little over eight weeks and the hay sells for $14 a ton in Savannah. His farm of 125 acres yields an income of $27,000 a year. An ncome of $216 an acre by mixed farming is better than $12 an acre for cotton, and the most of that devoured by expenses. Many of the former slave-holders, like Mr. Ryals, have adopted natural methods of farming and are making money.

I found an Irishman at Birmingham, who came from Pennsylvania as a common laborer, but bought a few acres of land near the city and en-gaged in market gardening. He is worth $100,000, aged in market gardening. and has made most of it from the soil. During the "boom" he was offered $150,000 for his little farm; but he replied, "This is the only business I know how to do, and I guess I won't sell." It is a pity there are not more market gardeners and ewer real estate "boomers" in the south. Prices of food, of course, are high in southern cities, be-cause the most of it is brought in from a distance. Armour & Co. sold over $300,000 worth of fresh neats in Birmingham last year, and this is only ne of five large firms selling fresh and salted nargarine in that city. From his own experience and observation, Mr. Norton thinks that the same capital and skill brought larger returns in the south than the north in all branches of farming. The absence of a long, expensive winter may be turned to good profit, and there is far less competition than with us. There are hundreds of thousands of acres of government land open for pre-emption in Alabama and adjacent states, and prices of private lands are not over one-fourth what we pay at the north. One can buy good grazing and timber lands, underlaid with the best of coal, for $10 an acre. Mr. Norton found the lower south jubilant over the largest cotton crop in five years, and in some cases this single crop paid all the accumulated debts of the preceding years and left a surplus besides. But, taking waste of lands and labor into account, exclusive cotton-raising, like exclusive grain-raising, is an unprofitable business,

A Rare Spirit of Meanness. In the editorial columns of the Boston Transcript, we find a little piece of viciousness that is worth alluding to just at this time when the whole country is lamenting the death of Mr. Grady, and commenting with sympathy and sorrow on the great and patriotic purpose which he had in view, and which he had carried out to a point where it was applauded and appreciated by the best people of the land.

Referring to an attempt of a negro orator to dispose of some of the less material utterances of Mr. Grady's Boston speech, the Transcript alludes to the dead southern orator as "Brady," and carries this allusion through a half column of closely printed

Such an allusion as this is either the re sult of meanness or of misinformation, and it is equally discreditable and inexcusable in either case. It is not an important matter, but we desire to put it on record here, as an evidence of littleness that is not often found in the columns of an American newspaper that pretends to be reputable. A cold wave from Texas is advertised this morning. Coming at this time of the year, it looks like an attack on the street-car drivers. For a day or two New York has been holding the world's fair in Washington.

ILDLEY continues to be a bigger man than is to be observed that Tommy Edison, the electric mule, continues to get in his work.

THE fact that a colored orator at the north is credited by a Boston paper with solving the race problem, shows how simple a matter it is. EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE says: "Jules Verne can travel no more, prevented by the accident which befell him four years ago when a favorite nephew went mad suddenly and shot at the novelist. One of the bullets hit him in the leg, and the wound has never healed. He is consequently unable to walk much. His forthcoming book is called "The Journey Backwards," and describes a trip through the north of America and Alaska and over the Behring straits. Verne is now at his seventy-fourth novel. He writes two every year. He gets through a certain amount of work every ng, never missing a day.

A Washington correspondent writes: "Judge William D. Kelley's death was undoubtedly caused by tobacco. For the last three or four years he has not used the weed in any shape, but prior to this time he was an inveterate smoker and chewer. He smoked steadily for two generations, and not content with getting away with a number of content with getting away with a number of cigars during the daytime, he would go to bed at night with a quid of tobacco in his mouth and sleep with it lying next his cheek. When he arose in the morning he would take another chew, and after breakfast he would smoke a high-priced Havana. The result was that his system became saturated with his system became saturated with nicotine, and a cancerous growth arose in his cheek where the quid rested at night. This cancer e apparent about the time Grant died of too nicotine, and at about the time that Hanmuch nicotine, and at about the time that l cock passed away. Judge Kelley's doctors him that this cancer would have to be cut away, him that this cancer would have to be cub away, and that he must stop the use of tobacco if he would save his life. There was no public man in the United States who had a stronger will than had Judge Kelley, and though 'over seventy he consented to the operation. It was a very painful one, but he grew better immediately; the cancer was cut away, and he told me tabout a year after this time that he never had felt better than he did then. He said, however, that the desire for tobacco was at times almost maddening, and that bacco was at times almost maddening, and that he had to avoid places where he must breathe tobacco smoke, as this increased his desiregiorit. When the craving became so strong that he could pardly stand it, he would sometimes bite off the end of a cigar and hold it in his mouth for a few moments and then throw it way. He is probably the only instance in history of a great man who was so far master of himself that he could quit the ase of tobacco after the hourly smoking of more Principal Keeper of the Penitentiary Towers was notified yesterday by the keepers of the camp at Graysville in Catoosa county that a convict had gone violently insane. They say that uutil he is emoved the lives of others are in constant danger. The unfortunate prisoner is a white man named Jackson Bettis, who committed forgery in Whitfield county and was sentenced to serve a four years sentence. Since his incarceration the shame of his position has so troubled him that last week his mind gave way and he became a raving maniac. At first the doctors were of the opinion that Bettis was suffering from hydrophobia. He refused to drink: even the sight of water threw him into violent convulsions. Later, however, it became that he was a lunatic, and since then he kept in chains. Colonel Shubrick will visit the camp tomorrow with an order from the governor, and as soon as Bettis is adjudged a lunatic he will be removed to the asylum.

ter of thanks from Mr. T. F. Kyle, of Rix's Mills Ohio, for the trouble he had taken in discovering the fate of Frank McNary, who disappeared after the battle of the Wilderness and has never since been heard of. Some time ago THE CONSTITUTION printed a letter making inquiries concerning the missing man, and also a request from Captain Harrison that all doctors who took part in the battle should give any information they possessed. Mr. Kyle states in his letter that soon after the publication of the facts reeeived a letter from Mr. Jas. S. Baldwin, of Haynie, Georgia, which told him that immediately after the fight Mr. Baldwin was taken to a field hospital, and he was placed in a cot next to a ing federal soldier who died. Before his death, however, he gave Mr. Baldwin a psalm book, with the name of Frank McNary, 126 Ohio Volunteers, 1864, written on the fly leaf. Mr. Kyle stated that he considered the evidence conclusive, but it came too late to be of any comfort to McNary's aged mother, as she died immediately after Mr. Kyle wrote to Captain Harrison for information.

$1,423,340 02 TRIBUTES TO MR. GRADY.

At the Celebration by the Boston De of Jackson's Day. At the celebration by the state democratic committee of Massachusetts of the 75th anniversary of "Jackson's Day," several high tributes were paid to the memory of Henry Grady. Colonel Jonas H. French said, among other

"We would stand today at the portals of his new-made grave, representing no party, be parties; voicing the sentiments of all the pof the north, and extend, not alone to the of the north, and extend, not alone to the old mother, the widow, the children—to the city he had done so much to build up—to the state he loved so well—but to the whole south that sincere sympathy for their great loss, which comes from earnest, faithful, patriotic hearts, and which finds its basis in the sterling qualities of the man. When the news of his death reached us our community was shocked, not more by its suddemess than by the wreck of high anticipations which had been formed for him, and the shattering of hopes never to be realized. For it seems to me that if ever a man had a mission to perform—a work that an all-ruling Providence laid out fot him—this man had one. And it was not only to bring the an all-ruling Providence laid out for him—this man had one. And it was not only to bring the north-to a better understanding of the race problem, but, in the south, to lead in its solution, upon the lines of a broad humanity, a comprehensive patriotism, and in accordance with the spirit of our free institutions.

It was a practical work, and Grady understood it. No fine-spun theories could enter into it. it. No fine-spun theories could enter into it. He appreciated the temperament of the people upon both sides.

He was as fierce in his denunciations of the extremists of the south, with their shotgun policy, He was as fierce in his denunciations of the extremists of the south, with their shotgun policy, as he was withering in his sarcasm concerning those "pests" we have here in the north, who sometimes get into high places, and who, under a philanthropic disguise, fan the embers of strife and of a fratricidal war—who would invite federal bayonets to greet us at the polls, under whose gleaming we are asked to enact the traversty of a free ballot. He appealed to the reason and conscience of the north, and whilst he fortified himself by irresistible argument, he bespoke our patience, our forbearance, our moderation, and our confidence. Whenever he was heard, he created public sentiment, clamor ceased, reason prevailed, confidence. Whenever he was heard, he created public sentiment, clamor ceased, reason prevailed, and he was reaching the people not more through the ear than the heart.

Those of us who listened to him whilst in Boston, captivated as we were by his matchless eloquence—as convincing as it was tenper and unique—for "he spoke as the birds sing"—could not fail to discover that down deep in his nature there was an underlying stratum of genuine patriotism, nourished by his Celtic blood, that no state lines could circumscribe, which impelled and guided his utterances.

His eloquence was of that kind that achieves results. It was not the mere putting together of and guade was of that kind that achieves results. It was not the mere putting together of words and phrases that glitter and are gone, but there was a meaning to it, and there was a deep sense of responsibility in what he said which came in convincing form from a full heart.

"His speech burst throbbing from its fount And set our coffer thoughts aglow,
As the hot, leaping geysers mount,

And set our conter thoughts agon,
As the hot, leaping geysers mount,
And falling melt the Iceland snow.
Some word, perchance, we counted rash,
Some phrase our caimness might discla
Yet 'twas the sunset's lightning' flash—
No angry bolt, but harmless flame."

GENERAL PAT COLLINS.

General Patrick A. Collins spoke as follows:
Gentlemen: The report of the passing away of Henry W. Grady from this life to the life to come, came to me with more grief than to all men in

It was an affliction to all; public in a way and a reprivate affliction to every man who knew Henry W. Grady. Perhaps he did as much good as any public man in a long life. And when it can be stated of a man of thirty-eight that he never held an office, that he never made an attempt to attract the attention of his fellow-citizens with the object of promoting his own welfare, you have a picture of Henry W. A GOVERNMENT SAFE Is Roughly Handled in an Attempt to Rob

It was discovered yesterday morning that the government safe in the customhouse had been badly battered in an attempt to rob it. The work was not that of an expert, or would probably have been more successful. The method was a primitive proceeding, and the wonder is that so lumbering and clumsy an affair could have passed und Owing to the general repairs going on at the customhouse, the safe has necessarily been exposed, and the officials, for this reason, had moved from it all that was valuable.

The safe is known to have been all right Friday, and the work was done some time between Friday night and yesterday morning. A very heavy stone had been used to batter the door, and the blows were repeated until one hinge was broken off and the combination knobs broken. But the work was left off before the door was off.
Even if the safe had been broken open, the thief would have found nothing of value to him.

His Bondsmen Locate Him and Relieve

McCord and Heflin, two witnesses in the Eddleman case, were charged with perjury. The grand jury found true bills.

McCord went to South Carolina in time, but was captured, brought back, tried and convicted and sentenced.

Heflin went to Alabama. His bond was $2,000. The story came back that he had gone insane. He failed to put in an appearance at the proper time, and his bondsmen have been very uneasy, using every effort to find him.

Last night Hefin slept in Fulton county jail. His bondsmen surrendered him.

Heflin has never been tried, but his case will probably be given an early date on the calendar, and the case pushed.

In many places the full rate is not charged; in others the rate is charged but only s part of the percentage allowed is added. For in-stance, Griffin, Georgia, is, say, 250 miles from the coast, the rate allowed is fifteen cents per 106 pounds, or §3 per ton; to this add twenty per cents and we would have $3.00. As a matter of fact, the charge to Griffin is only $3.20. Now, the error, if the trade is made, is in calculating the full deduc-tion of twenty per cent recently made by the commissioners, upon the presumption that it has been added in all cases."

ON TRIAL FOR LIFE.

OLD MANJIM BONE IN COURT YES-TERDAY.

. Charged With Murder in the First Degree-Admits Shooting Mr. Woodward, but Says it was Justifiable.

On trial for murder!

Seven lives to answer for one!

Old man Jim Bone, Lem Bone, Mrs. Bone, Mrs. Buckalew, Jessie Bone, young Jim Bone and Jim Buzbee, were placed on trial yesterday for the killing of Mr. James F. Woodward, the latter part of December last.

The readers of THE CONSTITUTION are familiar with the details of the killing, as brought out by the coroner's inquest, and the subsequent imprisonment of the Bone family and their associates, Buckalew and Buzbee.

Few crimes have been surrounded by more peculiar circumstances, and in Fulton county, fower yet have been attended by more interest throughout the various stages of the investigaconfession of the killing, a cloud of mystery hangs over the death of Mr. Woodward. The farther the coroner's jury went into the erime, the more complicated it grew, until it seemed that not only the old man but all his family, from the gray-haired wife to the tottling eightyear-old, were particeps criminus. And not only the Bone family but, even their connections were held for complicity.

"I SHOT JIM WOODWARD," said old man Bone, before the coroner's jury, "I did it, and no one is to blame. Now, proye it," he said to the court, yesterday. Admitting the deed at one inquest, he challenges the proof at another. Vindicating his family and friends in one instance, in another, he is content to see them stand before a court of justice to be convicted or exhonorated along with

So goes the history of the case all the way through. Already contradictory evidence and corrected statements have figured conspicuously in the investigation, and of the witnesses examined vesterday, one-an important one—boldly and openly admitted that he had sworn one thing before the coroner, but that he then swore to a directly opposite fact. Another, and one upon whom the prosecution had staked much, was so guarded and careful in her utterance as to excite suspicion as to her sincerity.

One of them was W. H. Vaughan, the man who loaned Bone the deadly pistol, and the other was Ellen Twilley, the girl who has been of the Bone household for several years, and who is a very important witness. Two weeks ago Vaughan swore he did not lend Bone a pistol; yesterday he said he had, and Ellen Twilely was several times entraped into counter-statements, though in the main her deviations are not so far material.

JUDGE RICHARD CLARK

gat on the bench at yesterday's trial, which was held in the criminal superior court room. Solicitor Charles D. Hill appeared for the state, assisted by Colonel W. C. Glenn. The defendants were represented by Hon. James A. Gray and Mr. Frank Walker.

When court was opened the room was filled with an interested, inquisitive crowd of spectators, remaining in that condition until a recess was taken at 5 o'clock vesterday afternoon: JUDGE RICHARD CLARK tors, remaining in that condition until a recess was taken at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoom. During the drawing of the jury and until the work of taking testimony was began, all the defendants were present in the courtroom, except Mr. Buckalew, who, on account of a slight indisposition, remained at the jail.

The five prisoners, together with the youngest of the Bone family, Chalmers, an innocent faced little fellow of eight, sat in a row, facing Judge Clark, with the old man a few feet in front earnestly conversing with his attorneys. Mrs. Bone and Jessie sat at one end of the row, and Jim Bone and Buzbee at the other, and the buby Bone, who was in court solely because there was nobody to take care of him at because there was nobody to take care of him at

THE PRISONERS AND THEIR APPEARANCE.
Old man Bone was the only one of the entire family who displayed any emotion or uncasiness. He sat with bowed head and hands continually moving from one part of his person to another. His eyes, which are set in a face roughened and begrined with toil, were haggard and strained looking, nervously glancing from side to side and from judge to jury, and back to judge again. He wore a rough suit of blue, a faded gray flannel shirt, with a well-worn slouch hat—his Sunday clothes, his counsel said. The old man chewed tobacco well-worn slouch hat—his Sunday clothes, his counsel said. The old man chewed tobacco counsel said. The old man chewed tooacco incessantly, and his nervous excitement seemed to be bent on expending itself in the ceaseless working of his jaws.

Jessie Bone was neatly dressed, wearing a dark brown suit, trimmed in fur, and a stylishlooking beaded turban. The old woman was rather shabbily clad, wearing a great broad-primmed strew hat from beneath, which her brimmed straw hat, from beneath which her deep set little eyes peered out with a hard, cronish expression. She sat perfectly still during her presence in the courtroom, never manifesting any outward signs of interest in the proceedings, and seemingly oblivious of her surroundings. Her mouth was tightly closed, and in all she presented just such a picture as one would expect of a woman bearing her general reputation of craft and cunning. brimmed straw hat, from beneath which her one of the most noticeable in this group of triminals was Jim Buzbee. He was evidently greatly excited, laboring under a mental condition too strong for concealment. Nervous and restless, constantly changing his position, there was a particular form of agitation, remarkable in its peculiarity. His teeth, white and shining, were tightly clenched, but twitching as regularly as clock-work, his lips would open, showing the white rows of teeth inside. The effect was startling, and produced anything but a pleasant and favorable impresinside. The effect was startling, and produced anything but a pleasant and favorable impres-sion on the spectators.

STRIKING JURORS.

Five panels of jurors were exhausted before twelve unbiased and acceptable men were secured. The striking occupied the time of the court from assembling until twenty minutes to 3 in the afternoon.

Old man Bone took an active interest in the selecting of the jurors, and before each was accepted he conferred at length with his lawyers.

The defense struck nineteen jurors, the state three, and thirty-nine went off for cause.

When the jury was finally completed, after an extra panel had been secured from among the crowd in the court room, from which last panel four men were taken, it was composed of the following, of whom the major portion are farmers:

THE INDICTMENT.

When the jury had been completed, each man before his acceptance, besides the regular formula being required to answer the question of relationship to either the dead man or any of the prisoners. Solicitor Hill fead the bill of indictment returned by the grand jury.

The indictment charged old man J. C. Bone with the murder of Mr. J. F. Woodward, principal in the first degree, and Mrs. Bone, Jim Bone, Lem Bone, Jessie Bone, Mrs. Buckalew and Jim Buzbee, principals in the second degree. On another count, all but the old man were charged with being accessory before the fact and/on another as accessorylafter the fact. All of which was contrary to the laws of the state of Georgia, the peace, good order and dignity thereof.

Mr. Gray, for the defense, then announced himself ready, and the work of taking testimony was begun. The defense asked that each prisoner be tried separately, and the solicitor agreed, designating the old man as first for trial.

Dr. Howell cut the ball from Mr. Woodward's back, it having entered in front and coming clear through to the skin between the seventh and eighth rib, and also identified the size of the pistol that made the wound by the ball, which he had preserved. He said the dead man and his assailant had evidently faced each other when the shot was fired, and further, that the muzzle of the pistol, judging by the powder on Mr. Woodward's clothing, could not have been more than three or four inches from him.

Mr. Woodward had told him nothing about the shooting, because he (Dr. Howell) did not care to know it, and to his knowledge he had not told anybody else, at least not in his presence, as he had forbidden the patient from talking. The Louisville and Nashville is knocking at

His evidence was the same as has already been printed. Old man Bone had asked him for a pistol "to shoot a damn rascal," but not having one, the request was refused.

"No, sir."
"Should not you have given notice of the threat to the police?"
"Yes, but I thought Bone was only fooling, that he was just mad at somebody, and then I didn't ask who he was going to shoot."
Walker heard the shots about half-past 11 o'clock on the night of the 26th of December, a few hours after he had been asked by Bone for a pistol.

another yardman, the man whom Bone had asked for a pistol, when he was referred to Vaughan.

He saw the pistol loaned by Vaughan, and recognized that showed him in court as the same one. When Bone asked him for one he stated that he wanted to go out in the country to have some fun.

ELLEN TWILLEY, the girl who has been living in the Bone family for the past three or four years, was the last witness put on the stand yesterday.

There was nothing new in her testimony but in several places it was slightly inconsistent. She testified that Mr. Woodward came to see Jessie Bone, and that his visits wered known to old man Bone. The night of the shooting the old man had told her that he intended to kill Mr. Woodward, and shortly after hearing the shot fired he came to the front porch, and calling her out, said he had carried out his threat, and had shot Woodward in the breast; that if she said anything about it, he would kill her, too.

She described the scenes at the Bone residence that evening, her statement as to which arrived first, Bone or Woodward, being very much mixed. She was in Jessie's room with her and Mr. Woodward ten minutes before, and until the latter left. Mr. Woodward had furnished Jessie's room, but the furniture was not there now.

THE PURCHASER OF THE ROME AND

Big Developments Expected—What This Would Mean.

If reports are true, the Louisville and Nashville railroad has bought the Rome and Decatur, and, through an extension of that road, will make an entrance to Atlanta, Augusta and other parts of Georgia. and other parts of Georgia.

For a long time prior to its sale, the Rome and Decatur was looked upon as the basis of important railroad developments in Georgia, and the name of the purchasers was awaited with a lively interest. When it was announced that Newcombe and Company had bought it everybody was nonplussed.

About the first thing that appeared certain was that the East Tennessee had not bought it. Then there was a rumor that the Louis-ville and Nashville system was the purchaser. For a day the people in Rome were jubilant over that report, as they thought an entrance of the Louisville and Nashville meant great developments for them because of the large coal fields that system tapped eighty miles west of them on Sand mountain. Then the rumor was denied, and since that time the future of the Rome and Decatur has been in the dark, so far as the public was con-

At last it seems to be settled that the Louisville and Nashville road is the purchaser.

The Tribune of Rome states this to be a fact, and says its authority is a prominent Anniston man who also gives the information that the Louisville and Nash-ville has bought the Anniston and Atlantic and the Anniston and Cincinnati, two roads running into Anniston from Attala and Sylaeauga. These two joining the Rome and Decatur at Attala would, after its completion, open up the immense tonnage of Anniston to the Louisville and Nashville, while the Rome and Decatur opened up Georgia.

There is good reason to believe that the Tribune's information is correct. Last fall some friends of the Louisville and Nashville secured a charter for the Alabama and Georgia Coal, Iron and Railrod com-pany. This charter, which is at the disposal of the Louisville and Nashville people, conveys the right to build a rail-road from Atlanta westward to the state line, at a point about where the Rome and Decatur crosses. The route lay either by Rome or Cedartown. It is understood that this charter was procured with a view to building an inde pendent line into Georgia by such a route that the Rome and Decatur could be made a part in case it came into the hands of the Louisville and Nashville people. It appears now that they have carried out their idea, and, having acquired the Rome and Deca-tur, will extend it to Atlanta and thus make entrance into Georgia by an inde pendent line. As is well known, the Louisville and Nash ville company has a half interest in the lease of the Georgia railroad, and would be able to make the same traffic arrangements over that line as the Central. They also have, by their interest in the Georgia franchise, an interest in the Atlanta and West Point road. Once in Atlanta they would have access to Augusta and Macon over the Georgia, and would make connection over the West Point road with the main stem at Montgomery.

The Rome and Decatur is in operation from Rome to Attala, Alabama, on the Alabama Great Southern railroad. Seventy miles more complete the gap to Decatur, where it taps the Louisville and Passiville system. About the same distance will extend the line to Atlanta. Adding fifty-five miles, the present length of the road from Rome to Atlanta, you have 195 miles from Atlanta to Decatur, Ala., making a line about fifty miles shorter than any existing route.

The mineral connections of the Louisville and Nashville and its liberal policy in development will make it an immense factor in building up the manufacturing in-erest of northwest Georgia, where a direct connection with coal mines only eighty miles off would give a tremendous stimulus to industry.

Atlanta would be able to lay hands on the furnished Jessie's room, but the furniture was not there now.

Before Mr. Woodward left the house old man Bone had showed her and Mr. Buckalen a pistol, and told them he was going to kill him. She had not warned Mr. Woodward, but let him go out and be shot.

Ellen Twilley occupied the stand a considerable time, but when court adjourned at 5 o'clock her examination had not been completed. She will be not on the stand again not only another competing outlet, but would give a short and quick route for the immense western traffic that comes into the state every year.

Rome would get a great boom from such a road. Her trade area would be greatly widened westward, and the tremendous iron ore deposits on Dirtseller and other ridges to the west would be developed by iron furnaces, and become a magnificent basis for trade and manufacture in everything made of pig

The Louisville and Nashville would open a direct connection with, virtually, all the mines of the Birmingham region. The Birmingham Mineral road, owned by the Louisville and Nashville, has ramifications all through that country in the coal and iron districts. Two More Daily Trains.

Early in February the Richmond and Danville will put on a vestibule limited train between Atlanta and Washington, making three daily trains between those points. It connects in Washington with the Pennsylvania line, so that the schedule between New York and Atlanta is the fastest ever known, the trip being made in a little over twenty-At the same time the Georgia Pacific will put on a train to connect with this, leaving Atlanta about eight or half past, a.m. Such a change has been needed for a long while past. It has been impossible to go to Birmingham—or Austell—except in the afternoon, and then it is impossible to come back the same day. With the new schedule in operation you can leave Atlanta over the Georgia Pacific in the morning and come back that same eventing.

The Wrightsville & Tennille Directory.

Tennille, Ga., January 13.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wrightsville and Tennille railroad, was held at Tennille today. The following directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year: W. B. Thomas, G. W. Perkins and J. W. Smith, of Tennille; J. S. Wood, and E. McIntyre, of Savannah; R. L. Warthan and O. H. Rogers, of Sandersville, and Charles Hicks, of Dublin. The directors elected the following officers: W. B. Thomas, president and superintendent; W. C. Matthews, treasurer; F. H. Robertson, auditor. The stockholders and their families took advantage of the meeting, and visited our town in large numbers.

Macon and Birmingham Case.

A very interesting case, especially interesting to M. and B. stockholders, comes up from Upson county. The ordinary of that county has refused the application of the Macon and Birmingham railroad company to appoint assessors to fix right of way and damages through the property of J. S. Stamps. The refusal is based on the ground that the charter does not authorize the road to run on that line. A mandamus was applied for. The Wrightsville & Tennille Directory.

A New Schedule. A New Schedule.

The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia will issue a new time eard next Sunday, Jannary 19th.

It is understood that several changes will be made affecting Atlanta travel, but just what they will be is not yet known.

The following circular has been issued by the president of the Eutawville railroad:

CHARLESTON, SUMTER AND NORTHERN RAIL-ROAD, President's Office—New York; January 6, 1890.—The Eutawville railroad has been extended from Vance's to Sumter, S. C.

The name of the road is changed to Charleston, Sumter and Northern railroad.

Stations on the new line are: Merriam, St. Paul, Summerton, Silver, Packville, Tindal and Sumter.

JOHN S. SILVER, President.

The Last Spike.

Saturday morning at Graces, four miles south

Saturday morning at Graces, four miles south of Birmingham, the last spike went in the Red Gap branch of the Birmingham Mineral road. The new branch, which has been under construction for several months, extends from Gate City around the south edge of Red mountain to Graces, a distance of ten miles. It reaches a number of new ore mines now being connect. Two of these mines, owned by the Pioneer Mining and Manufacturing company, are in operation.

The new branch will be turned over to the operating department of the road, and trains will be placed on it on the 25th inst. There is yet some work in the way of surfacing up the track to be done, which will delay the putting on of trains until that time.

C. P. Shober, traveling passenger agent for the Richmond and Danville, with headquarters at Montgomery, was in Atlanta yesterday.

The Reading Railroad company has issued an order—an official order—requiring its uniformed employes to keep their coats buttoned at all times while on duty. The penalty is discharge from the service.

Engineer Fraser is surveying on the line of the Anniston and Atlantic, preparatory to making that road a standard gauge.

This sounds a little unreasonable, but a newspaper in Anniston, Ala., vouches for it: "The Oneonta accommodation on the Birmingham Mineral has not been one minute late in the past year's daily run." Not less than 95 per cent of fatal railway accidents are caused by carelessness and drunkenness, and less than 5 per cent can be classed as occurring from causes beyond human control.

curring from causes beyond human control.

Pullman's Palace Car company employs 11,063 hands, who are paid nearly $6,000,000 per year, the average wages being about $50 per month. In the Pullman Loan and Savings bank there are 1,200 depositors, nearly all employes of the Pullman works; credit to each depositor, about $240. This company supplies with sleeping cars 117,854 miles of the 160,000 miles of railroad in this country, and during the last year increased the mileage supply by 11,723 miles. The surplus of the company is officially stated at $15,000,000.

How can you tell how fast a train is going? This is the answer a railroad man gives: "Every time the car passes over a rail joint there is a distinct click. Just count the number of truck clicks in twenty seconds, and you have the number of miles the train is going per hour. This is a simple matter of arithmetic, as the length of the rail is uniform."

The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis has issued a new southeastern tariff and tariff of arbitraries effective January 16th. The tariffs supersede all previous supplements, but there are no especial changes made in rates.

The Mallory line steamers, now running between New York and Brunswick, make the trip in exactly sixty hours. Gone to Savannah .- Mr. T. M. Giddens leaves today for Savannah where he goes to accept a po-sition under Mr. Starr, superintendent of trans-fer, Central road. Mr. Giddens has many warm friends in Atlanta who will regret to lose him. He is a thorough gentleman and Savannah will gain in him a valuable citizen.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 13.—The stock market was quiet today with the usual preponderance of a few stocks in the amount of business done and a general sagging tendency which carried prices down fractionally in the general list, while coal stocks were again possitively weak and in some of them material losses were scored. Reading and its affairs were a great center of interest and dissatis faction over the course of affairs was shown in the pressure of long stock for sale in the early dealings. The decision denying an injunction against voting for a trust was known shortly after the opening of the board, but seemed to have no material influence upon the course of stock, as it leaves things just as they are, and is regarded as a substantial victory for the Corbin party. The bears, seeing the drift of the stock, proceeded to cut the market away from long sellers, and large blocks of it changed hands in the first hour, result-ing in a decline of 1½ per cent. Other coalers sympathized closely with Reading and Jersey Central, and Delaware and Hudson sold at a mater Central, and Delaware and Hudson sold at a mater-ically lowest price than last week, the former lower price showing a loss of three per cent. Lackawana was active, but was still well sup-ported, though it sagged off with others, and closed with a loss of over one per cent. There was little of interest, in the rest of the list, though New England displayed considerable strength in the face of the early decline, as did also Wheeling and Lake Frie stocks and sugar refleries. The the face of the early decline, as did also Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks, and sugar refineries. The last named, in fact, was the only really strong stock in the market, and stands alone this afternoon in showing material improvement. Kansas and Texas was weak throughout, but rallied slightly toward the close when the covering of shorts caused a slight rally in the general list, and coal stocks, especially Jersey Central, rose considerably above the lowest figure. The market closed quiet on the rally. Sugar is up 1 per cent tonight, but all the others are lower, and Delaware and Hudson lost 2, Jersey Central 1½, Lackawanna 1½, and Northern Pacific, preferred, and Tennessee Coal 1 per cent each. Sales of stocks aggregated 231,000 shares.

Henry Clews & Co.'s Circular.

NEW | YORK, January 13—[Special.]—There was nothing in Liverpool this morning to encourage buying. After the strong close of Saturday a better Liverpool was expected. That market opened 1½(22½/4 up, but lost it immediately and closed quiet at about Saturday's prices. This caused selling at our opening at a decline of 223 points. After the opening, upon covering of some shorts by some prominent firms, there was quite a flurry, and the demand for long and short account was sufficient to send prices up 426 points from the opening. After this demand was supplied dullness reigned for awhite with all the local operators long a little, which they did not want; and, while they expected to unload on shorts later, this cotton was put upon the market, and the bears made a sharp raid, and prices quickly declined 829 points throughout the list, closing weak at the lowest of the day. Liverpool sold 10,000 bales at unchanged prices, receiving 15,000 bales, of which 10,000 bales were American. There was nothing doing in Manchester. Yarns were strong, and the cloth market showed a hardening tendency. The southern markets were firm and generally unchanged, except for Galveston and Norfolk, which were 1-16c and Wilmington ½c higher. The exports were only 14,004 bales to the continent. 10,550

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO, January 13—The wheat market was very quiet and featureless. Cold weather and prospects of a liberal decrease in the visible supply had a tendency to create firmness in the market, and prices averaged slightly better, advancing 3/sc over Saturday's closing and closed 1/4e higher. The domestic markets were generally steady and firm. steady and firm.

A DWELLING BURNED.

A SPARK FROM AN ENGINE LEAVES A FAMILY HOMELESS.

The Sad Calamity That Befell Mr. Benjamin Carr, in Bellwood, Yesterday Morning— The Family Homeless. A family was left homeless by a spark from locomotive engine yesterday morning.

Mr. Benjamin Carr owned a three-room dwelling, with a store-house attached, at the corner of the railroad and Greensferry road, in Bellwood.

A few days ago Mr. Carr decided to have the sides of the houses nearest the railroad plated with sheet iron, as a protection from the sparks of passing engines.

That was to have been done this week. BUT HE WAITED TOO LONG. for as the fast mail on the East Tennessee road went thundering by at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning, a shower of sparks were whirled hither and thither by the gale that was blowing at the time, and one of them lighted on the dwelling. The family was asleep in the house, and knew nothing of the impending danger.

Watchman Flournoy, at the crossing, saw watchman Flournoy, at the crossing, saw the blaze on the roof, and ran with all haste to give the alarm. He found a newsboy, and the two ran and aroused the inmates, and made heroic efforts to stop the progress of the fire. But their work was of no avail. Fanned by the blast, the flames quickly enveloped the dwelling and extended to the store. The inmates and each caught up a piece of furniture, and by hard work they saved the contents of the house. The store was fortunately empty, and only a little lumber of various sorts was contained in the room.

BARELY ESCAPED,

Both dwelling and store were burned to the ground, and both were a total loss, as there was no insurance on either.

was no insurance on either.

was no insurance on either.

The alarm was rung in, and the department went as far as the city limits, and finding the fire outside the city, turned back.

Mr. Carr is an honest, hardworking man, and the loss of the property falls very heavily man, because it is a surface with the city of the property falls of the property falls very heavily man, bein him.

npon him.

Had the watchman at the crossing been a little less watchful the catastrophe might have proven fatal to some of the immates of the dwelling, as it was an hour when few people were abroad, and the family inside the building were all sound asleep.

MORE BANKS FOR ATLANTA.

The Growth of the City Necessitates More Everybody should encourage all banking enterprises in our midst. prises in our midst.

Said a well known banker yesterday: "It's a great mistake that people make who say that we possibly are getting too many banks. Why," said he, "the banking capital of this city has not grown any more in proportion to the rapid growth and development of our great city, We need more banks, and it's a fact that three of our largest manufacturing institutions here use as much manufacturing institutions here use as much money in one year as the combined capital of about four of our banks. They can't be accommo-dated here and are compelled to get money else-

"This should not be, and when you are called upon to help start a banking enterprise, it should be every citizen's duty to assist in the matter. Some of our loan companies are increasing their capital with the object of going into general banking. They should be encouraged. Why not make Atlanta the financial center of the south. We can do it. First-class banks with conserva-tive management induce factories to locate here.
"We need all the banks we get. Take their stock as a safe investment. Every bank here is in fine condition, and making money."

ATLANTA, Ga., January 13, 1890.—Whereas, The students of the Southern Medical college, this day in mass meeting assembled, to take action upon the death of the beloved wife of our most honored and esteemed fellow classmate, A. H. Whitman, and the undersigned being appointed as a committee to draft such resolutions as may be proper, be it

Resolved, That we, as representatives of our most honorable body, do and hereby tender our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy for him in this, his dark hour of sore distress and sad be-reavement. And it is our prayer that the high and holy physician may attend him and administer to him such condolence as he alone gan give. And be it also

Resolved, That a copy of this paper be sent to our bereaved brother, and that it also be published in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and Journal. Respectfully submitted, DEAD IN HIS BED.

A WELL KNOWN PRINTER'S SAD DEATH IN CHARLOTTE.

Chalmers Turner Lays Down in His Usua His Wife and Chrildren in Atlanta, Chalmers Turner, a well known printer, was found dead in his bed, in Charlotte, yesterday morning.

Turner was about twenty-six years of age, and well known in Atlanta He was for a long time connected with the Atlanta Newspaper Union, and worked on THE CONSTITUION. Some worked on THE CONSTITUION. Some time ago he went to Charlotte, North Carolina, and was employed as pressman by the Newspaper Union there.

Yesterday morning his family received a telegram from Charlotte, stating briefly that he had been found dead in bed at his room in that city. So far as could be learned, he retired Sunday night in his usual health, and when found yesterday morning he was cold in death.

He had apparently died without a struggle, and every indication pointed to some affection of the heart.

Turner married a daughter of Mr. William Flynn, superintendent of streets in Atlanta, and his wife and two children reside in this city. Mrs. Turner is heartbroken over his sudden death. his sudden death.

his sudden death.

Last evening his brother-in-law, Tom Shields, left for Charlotte, in response to the telegram asking for directions as to the disposal of the body. He will bring the remains to Atlanta, where the funeral will occur today.

The deceased was an honest, hard-working printer, and those who knew him loved him for his wholesouled, generous disposition.

The family has the sympathies of many friends in their sad bereavement.

THE CHARTER AMENDED.

After the vice-presidents and directors were elected, the shareholders adopted an amendment to the charter of the company. The amendment of the charter of the company was duly incorporated on the 9th of April, 1887, but it desired an amendment to its charter, authorizing an increase in the capital stock to any sum not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, as may in the discretion of a majority of its shareholders be deemed advisable and expedient, and further that its capital stock be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each.

Continuing, it sets forth that the company desired its charter further amended, so that it would have authority to issue such series of preferred stock with such terms and such condutions as a majority of its shareholders may deem expedient, and that it have authority to issue bonds and other evidences of debt and to secure the same by mortgage or deed of trust covering its property and franchises, or in such other manner as may be deemed expedient. The company further asked authority to establish, conduct and maintain such drivense as may be deemed expedient by its board of directors; and that we have authority to swn and maintain such driving parks, exposition grounds, buildings, tracks, ways and drives as may be necessary to the holding and conducting of such races, me

Resolved, By the stockholders in annual meeting assembled,

1. That the amendment to the company's charter granted by the Fulton superior court on January 10, 1850, be and it is received and accepted.

2. That the capital stock of this company be and it is fixed at $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each, of which $40,000 is fixed as preferred stock as heretofore defined, and the balance of $60,000 is fixed as common stock.

3. That the president and secretary are instructed to have prepared proper certificates of stock to cover both said classes of stock, and that they issue to the proper parties certificates of stock for their shares in the company.

4. That all acts of this company heretofore had, either by its shareholders or directors, which might otherwise be questioned on account of the want of charter powers, be, and they are now hereby ratified, confirmed and approved as binding to this company.

Amanda B. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude impels me to acknowledge the great benefits I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's most excellent Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only remaining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are becoming robust, healthy children."

coming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 180 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G.W.Youker, Salem, N. J.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, be-came quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greenville District, M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

What the Manufacturer Can Do!

The manufacturer can furnish the consumer with a better grade of clothing for less money than the retail merchant can buy them for. This stands to reason, as the manufacturer has no middleman's profits or commissions to add to the cost of each garment he sells.

Not only have we the ability to demonstrate this, but we have the disposition, which fact is shown by our
